U. of Florida Gives Cheerleading Course 2

The University of Florida has instituted a new course into its curriculum. And, believe it or not, it is none other than a course in cheerleading. Classes are held every afternoon for 21 days, and then a special committee selects the men who are to lead the student body in cheering. The would-be cheerleaders are instructed according to a prescribed constitutional method. It would seem as if they've got something there, and perhaps some of our cheerleaders should take several lessons to improve their leadership.
